

Website is coming back!

The Arc of Colorado Overhauls their website!

Do you use your internet as a resource?

Are you looking for answers?

Do you need to know what's up and coming?

Do you want to know where to go or who to contact?

GET YOUR ANSWERS HERE!

The Arc of Colorado will launch its newly revamped Website in August. Everything will be different, and it will be a much more informative site than in the past. With the help of a new software, The Arc of Colorado staff themselves will be able to make changes on the Website pages. This will allow us to keep current with information and news, and keep our members current as well.

The Arc of Colorado Website will feature pages on the Waiting List Lawsuit and current Arc news, including national, state and local. There will also be pages on Community Service and Support Information, Community Resources, Other Updates and Coming Events, and access to past and current Arc of Colorado Newsletters. Each month there will be a Question and Answer of the Month. All of this and much, much more.

Log on to our current Website at www.thearcofco.org now, and then log on when we launch the new one on the first of August to see the changes. We hope we can keep all of our members much more up to date with Arc and developmental disability news and developments. Please use this new Website as a resource.

A New Listserv Promises to be Helpful

A new listserv has started. Parents & siblings & concerned relatives of adults and older children with disabilities will have an opportunity to share information, concerns, joys and successes about such topics as jobs, housing, aging, community activities, money management, weight gain, etc. This is not affiliated with The Arc but could certainly be helpful to those immediate family members who support adults and older children with disabilities.

If you are interested in participating, contact Denver Fox at dnvrfox@aol.com.